A MOTHER'S MEMOIR

Living While Dying

“I would encourage everyone to read A Mother's Memoir – Living While Dying. It offers inspiration and laughter, with a dash of tears. This book provides tools for young and old alike, to live life with purpose. These memories are a full course meal of life with some very sweet recollections for dessert. Please share with friends. They will thank you as I do.”

Bonnie Hensel, Innisfil, Ontario

“Is there sadness in this book? Yes, profound sadness. Will it make you cry? Most definitely. Will this book make you think about your life? Long and hard. If each of us took the advice on these pages, to live each day not knowing how much time we have left, our lives would be much richer. What will you discover about yourself ... when you realize that you too are Living While Dying?”

*Morag Wilkins, Senior Programming Services Representative

“The honest and sincere words regarding this time in Mary Lou's life are always presented with hope in her heart that maybe these words would be of help to some who find themselves in the same situation dealing with a disabling and sometimes hopeless disease. May all be inspired by this beautiful, precious story of love and faith.”

Carol Fike, Barrie, Ontario

“A Mother's Memoir – Living While Dying is a hauntingly beautiful depiction of the trials and tribulations of life. This is a heart-wrenching true story where strength and love of epic proportions show that through life's daily roller coaster, a mother's love is endless.”
